

WHERE LEADERS ARE MADE

PATHWAYS

The Foundation of the Toastmasters Experience

“We’re gonna’ fix it...Early Next Year”
We Must Use the System as it is now!

We face declining membership...
A significant amount of that decline
correlates with the low level of Pathways usage!

PATHWAYS

— learning experience —

Pathways is a customizable, self-paced learning process...

- It helps members develop the basic skills and practices of public speaking.
- Pathways sharpens the skill of giving and receiving feedback.
- Finally, Pathways illustrates and helps develop effective leadership behaviors in more than one leadership environment (work/service/volunteer).

Presentation Mastery

This path helps you build

THE NEED FOR GUIDANCE

- The concept of “customizable, self-paced” Means nothing to a new Toastmaster.
- A new Toastmaster will not be able to select a Path without support.
- A new Toastmaster will struggle picking a speech topic.
- A new Toastmaster will not be able to navigate to their first Level and first Project without guidance. And not their second Project; and probably not their third Project. Most need coaching through all of Level 1.
- Many times, the new Toastmaster will not ask for help, because they don't know what they don't know!
- Some (more than we want to admit) end up leaving Toastmasters because of confusion and frustration over Pathways!

FINDING AND SELECTING A SPEECH TOPIC

Food for Thought 😊

- Is there an activity where you spend a good chunk of time? Why and how do you enjoy that?
- Is there a hobby that energizes you? If yes, why or how?
- What draws a more profound meaning or passion if you are in a school club and enjoy it?
- Are you involved in a voluntary organization? How is it helping you make a difference in some way?
- What kind of books and readings appeal to you, and why?
- What interests you more about different subjects or topics you learn at school?
- What kind of experiences has stayed close to your heart? What emotions do they inspire in you (happiness, fear, challenge, anxiety, fun, etc.)?
- What worries you? What brings anxiety to you? Maybe there is a concern or a cause close to your heart.
- Is there a dream or a goal that ignites a fire for you from the inside?
- Is there a movie that left a lasting impression on you? Why?
- Describe a problem you've solved or a question you'd like to explain.
- What were your favorite events (e.g., performances, exhibits, competitions, conferences, etc.) in recent years?
- Did any of the current events intrigue you or make you think?
- Are there any new ideas, topics, or subjects that intrigue you? What are those? Why?
- What brings fun and excitement to your life?
- Is there a belief or idea you have challenged or would like to do so? Why?
- Any other specific topic or conversation that intrigued you – examples:
 - Carbonated drinks – are they good for you?
 - Why preserving the water is so crucial to our climate?
 - Paper recycling
 - An initiative or idea that is helping with alternative energy or alleviating global warming
 - A topic from one of your science classes, social studies, or history class: a few examples I have seen – artificial intelligence, robotics, culture, and the background of a specific country or group of people

- A problem that can add value to your audience
 - A knowledge topic
 - Your unique perspective and take on a topic
 - Something that shows how you think to solve a specific problem potentially

Your Speech Project Objective(s)

At Toastmasters, you prepare for a speech to achieve a specific project's objectives. The speech topic should make it easier for you to accomplish the project objectives.

Examples:

1. If your speech project is about researching a topic:
 1. Would sharing a personal story help? Probably not, as you won't have much room to study and use it.
 2. Would a speech topic on nanotechnology work? Probably yes, since the theme would create an opportunity to research, compile ideas and present them with your speech.
2. If your speech project is about using vocal variety:
 1. Would telling a story help? Probably yes. Voice inflections can help you develop emotional connections; dialogues in your account can easily lend themselves to vocal variety.
 2. Would sharing a personal experience help? Probably yes.
 3. Would presenting a technical topic help? Yes, and No.
 - Yes, if you consciously attempt to inject passion into your delivery. (It would still be more complex than the first two options.)
 - No, if the focus on content removes your emotional ability to engage.

Note: Maintain a speech bank for yourself. Whenever an idea pops in, please write it down in your Toastmasters notebook. The speech bank can come in handy while brainstorming speech topics for your next presentation(s).

A dark blue sidebar on the left contains a list of sections: Introduction, Your Assignment, Assess Your Skills—Before, Competencies, Discover Your Communication Style, Effective Use of Communication Styles, Adapting to Other Communication Styles, Review and Apply, Complete Your Assignment, Your Evaluation, and Assess Your Skills—After. The main content area features a photograph of a man speaking to a group of people in a meeting. Below the photo, the text reads: 'Communication is a two-way process. Messages are sent through verbal, non-verbal, and written messages. Communication style affects how we interact with one another and the messages we send. Understanding your own communication style can help you communicate with styles different from your own. This understanding will enable you to establish...' Navigation arrows are visible on the left and right sides of the page. At the bottom left is the Toastmasters logo with the tagline 'WHERE LEADERS ARE MADE'. At the bottom right, it says 'Presentation Mastery 2: Understanding Your Communication Style'. A dropdown menu at the bottom left of the sidebar is labeled 'Select to move to another section:'.

PROJECT CHECKLIST

Understanding Your Communication Style

Purpose: The purpose of this project is to learn about different communication styles and identify your primary style.

Overview: Complete the Discover Your Communication Style questionnaire to help you identify your style. Deliver a 5- to 7-minute speech at a club meeting about your communication style and its impact on your professional and/or personal relationships. If you are uncomfortable discussing your communication style, you may speak about the communication styles you have encountered and how they impact you. Your speech should not be a report of the content of this project.

- The Discover Your Communication Style questionnaire
- A 5- to 7-minute speech

Below are tasks you will need to complete for this project. Please remember, your project is unique to you. You may alter the following list to incorporate any other tasks necessary for your project.

☐ Complete the Discover Your Communication Style questionnaire.

☐ Schedule your speech with the vice president education.

☐ Write your speech. Include information about your current communication style and how you can effectively adapt your communication to connect with other styles. If you are uncomfortable discussing your communication style, you may speak about styles you have encountered and how they impact you.

☐ Rehearse your speech.

ANALYTICAL

This style is precise, exact, analytical, and logical. Because the person with an Analytical communication style is systematic and task-oriented, he is sometimes perceived as a perfectionist. He is organized, self-reliant, purposeful, and diplomatic.

He is motivated by certainty and will rarely give an opinion unless asked. He is slow and cautious in his pace and likes a structured, ordered, and functional environment. Because he needs to feel sure of his position and others' expectations, he is often private with personal information and does not easily express emotions.

INTRODUCTION

In this project, you will learn how to identify different communication styles, understand your preferred communication style, and recognize how your communication style may impact your interactions with others. You will determine how to improve your relationships by mastering and adapting your communication styles and match situational expectations.

PATHWAYS

— learning experience —

Pathways is a customizable, self-paced learning process...

- It helps members develop the basic skills and practices of public speaking.
- Pathways sharpens the skill of giving and receiving feedback.
- Finally, Pathways illustrates and helps develop effective leadership behaviors in more than one leadership environment (work/service/volunteer).
